Translator notes:

"It must have been something in my ear" refers to an event where a deranged guy came onto Korean national television and proclaimed that he had a spy bug in his ear.

Chapter 3 had no title

Fried chicken is expensive in Korea

Anyan's comments:

The Rafale of the French Air Force sometimes acts as a refueling aircraft with external fuel pods. It looks pretty weird with two 2000 L and two 1250 L fuel pods.

The English Sentinel R1 was introduced in 2008 but unfortunately it will be retired next year. Even though some have said it has had good performance in helping the French in Mali push back the rebellion, the English armed forces are unfortunately in financial trouble and the R1 is scheduled to be retired.
